

How providing development opportunities can better prepare your emerging talent

As a manager, you have a responsibility to ensure your emerging talent is prepared to take on more responsibility. Here are some ways you can do this:

Be clear when delegating tasks.	It's important to be clear when delegating tasks. Make sure you explain the task, the deadline, and the resources available. Delegation is a key skill for managers, and it's important to be clear when you're delegating. What can help: Delegation, Leadership, Management
Develop your leadership style.	Develop your leadership style. There are many different leadership styles, and it's important to find the one that works best for you. Leadership is a key skill for managers, and it's important to develop your own style. What can help: Leadership, Management
Strengthen your presentation skills.	Strengthen your presentation skills. Presentations are a key part of a manager's job, and it's important to be able to present effectively. Presentation skills are a key skill for managers, and it's important to strengthen your skills. What can help: Delegation, Leadership, Communication
Be prepared when leading teams.	Be prepared when leading teams. Leading a team is a key responsibility of a manager, and it's important to be prepared. Team leadership is a key skill for managers, and it's important to be prepared when leading a team. What can help: Communication
Build your confidence before leading a management task.	Build your confidence before leading a management task. Confidence is a key skill for managers, and it's important to build your confidence before leading a management task. Confidence is a key skill for managers, and it's important to build your confidence before leading a management task. What can help: Leadership
Be better prepared for taking on a management role.	Be better prepared for taking on a management role. Taking on a management role is a key step in your career, and it's important to be better prepared. Management preparation is a key skill for managers, and it's important to be better prepared for taking on a management role. There are many ways to prepare for taking on a management role. You can take courses, attend workshops, and seek out mentors. You can also gain experience by taking on small management tasks. The more you prepare, the better you will be when you take on a management role. What can help: Leadership, Management, Communication

